DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 21-23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Blum ('876). The reference discloses the invention substantially as claimed, namely a floor mat with a removably and re-attachably strip connected to the mat; see column 4, lines 40-55 and Figure 2. However it does not disclose strips in addition to the display strip independently attached to the mat. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to have a plurality of display sections on the mat of the reference in order to convey a plurality of messages. It would also have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to vary the sizes of the display sections so that one section is bigger than two other display sections in order to provide a desired decorative effect or so that one message is conveyed easier than the other messages.

Double Patenting

3. Claims 21-23 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claim 1 of U.S. Patent No. 6,635,331. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the patented claims include all of the limitations of the instant claims except for claim 22. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to vary the size of the display section in relationship to the other strips in order to provide a desired decorative effect or so that the message is conveyed easier.

Allowable Subject Matter

4. Claims 1-20 are allowed.
